and "good business" to replace broken plates just as soon as losses were verified. This will be done.

Major A. White, president of the New York Plate Glass Insurance Company, 63 Maiden lane, estimated the loss of insured plate glass in Manhattan at $200,000, in Brooklyn at $75,000 and in New Jersey at $20,000. He said the loss of sheet and double thin glass used in houses and factories and not insured would possibly bring the total of all glass losses to $1,000,000.

His company, which is one of the largest in the city, had already sent in its orders for plate glass, but Major White didn't know but that it might be a couple of weeks before the supply necessary for all of the repairs would arrive, owing to a shortage of plate glass.

Several hundred plate glass windows were replaced in the downtown section.
